2009 Annual Report

We're piecing together the landscape...

ONE FARM at a TIME

Trust Committed to Excellence in Preservation

When I am engaged in daily conversation, I use some phrases casually because they fit a variety of situations and are not meant to have an impact. I use other phrases carefully because I want them to be taken seriously. Examples of my impact list include “extraordinary leadership,” “integrity is an ingrained characteristic,” and “integrated work focus”. I use these phrases with conviction when I share information about Lancaster Farmland Trust.

Extraordinary leadership. At Lancaster Farmland Trust leadership is exhibited throughout the organization whether the task is an onsite monitoring visit to a farm, providing information to farmers through our Smart Farms program, organizing municipal outreach, recording and preparing financial information, representing the Trust at local, regional or national level meetings or consulting with the Board. Whatever the duty, it is undertaken with determined expertise.

Integrity is an ingrained characteristic. There is a continuing evaluation of procedures and policies to make sure the Trust continues to conduct business according to the highest standards possible whether it involves financial matters, preservation of farms, or information for the public. The Trust has earned accreditation from the Land Trust Alliance which is a national recognition of a well-run organization. The guidestar.org website further highlights the integrity which is ingrained in the Trust’s work.

Integrated work focus. The staff and board are made up of individuals from various backgrounds. Each person brings a talent to the Trust that is used in conjunction with the expertise of others to enhance the Trust’s work.

2009 was another successful year for the Trust that exemplified these qualities. The Trust preserved over 1000 acres of farmland last year, expanded its municipal outreach program, and continued to work with farmers to be good stewards of the land.

Thank you for your ongoing support and dedication to preserving what is unique about Lancaster County. We are grateful for your continued commitment to protecting Lancaster County’s home, harvest, and heritage.

The Trust continues to work effectively and with complete integrity to fulfill its mission today while considering future challenges. We want our farmers, donors and supporters to have a relationship with Lancaster Farmland Trust so they can contribute to and work with the Trust knowing that the use of the word “trust” will be taken seriously.

Lancaster Farmland Trust Expands Preservation Efforts

In 2009, the Lancaster Farmland Trust expanded its municipal outreach efforts, recognizing that municipalities play a key role as partners in protecting agriculture. The Trust developed successful partnerships with several local municipalities with notable preservation projects in Warwick Township, West Lampeter Township, Penn Township, and the Eastern Lancaster County region.

17 farms and 1,107 acres of farmland were saved in 2009. In addition, the organization was ranked 3rd in the state for the number of acres held under conservation easement.

Encouraging Good Stewardship of the Land

In 2009, Lancaster Farmland Trust expanded its efforts to assist owners of preserved farms with implementing best management practices on their farms. With the help of a grant from the Lancaster County Community Foundation, the Trust was able to expand the goals of the Smart Farms program, the Trust's best management practices (BMP) initiative.

The Trust started the Smart Farms program in 2007 in recognition of the important role agriculture plays in the health of our local waterways and the Chesapeake Bay. Smart Farms promotes environmentally sensitive farming practices and assists farmers in evaluating their farms and implementing practices that will conserve valuable resources while maintaining the viability of local agriculture. The program focuses on the following strategies: conducting on-farm assessments of current practices; working with farmers one-on-one to familiarize them with BMPs; helping farmers implement BMPs; conducting educational workshops highlighting the latest information on good farming practices; and evaluating progress during on-site visits

Last year Lancaster Farmland Trust also received a grant from the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation (NFWF) to work with owners of preserved farms to improve their farming practices and reduce runoff into streams that feed the Bay. Using the NFWF grant, the Trust is developing a pilot program that will provide financial incentives for implementing best management practices. The best management practices implemented on the farms in the pilot program will generate "nutrient credits" that can then be purchased by municipal water treatment plants to offset costly capital improvements. Farmers are paid for the "credits" and for agreeing to maintain the improvements for a period of time. The nutrient credit trading program is a way for farmers who preserve their land to also help clean up local waterways in the Chesapeake Bay watershed.

These efforts help the Trust fulfill its mission of preserving and stewarding the beautiful, productive farmland of Lancaster County that reflects our heritage, supports our economy, nurtures our health and enhances our quality of life. The Trust works diligently to assist the local agricultural community in meeting new challenges and ensure that agriculture as a way of life is protected for generations to come.
